

The St. Mary's Tigers and Lady Tigers split a doubleheader on the road against Hornbeck Tuesday night with the Lady Tigers falling 57-47, while the Tigers won 57-37.

The Lady Tigers (8-11) were led by Ava Errington with 22 points while Lybi Cross had 14. However, the Lady Tigers scored just seven points in the fourth quarter allowing Hornbeck (16-7) to hold on for the win.

The Tigers (12-5) won their fourth straight game as they exploded in the third quarter. After taking a modest halftime lead of 24-17, SMH roared in the third quarter to a 44-23 lead to pull away for the win. Mixon Bankston led the Tigers with 20 points while Ben Bienvenu added 14 and Aiden Warren had 12.

Next up, the Tigers and Lady Tigers will host Loyola College Prep Friday.
